The programme enables participants to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Engage critically with new developments in dance education and learning and teaching</li> <li>• Deepen subject knowledge within a clearly defined area or context, informed by research at the forefront of current understanding</li> <li>• Develop a critical understanding of research in learning and teaching and its application to dance</li> <li>• Advance knowledge of, and skills in, teaching and/or leadership through observation, reflection, analysis and evaluation</li> <li>• Generate innovative action-based research in dance teaching which will enhance learning</li> <li>• Extend and refine communication skills through discussions, presentations and different forms of writing</li> </ul>
19. Programme learning outcomes – the programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, skills, qualities and other attributes in the following areas:

Knowledge and Understanding <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Systematic knowledge and understanding of dance education and clearly defined areas and teaching contexts within dance education, informed by research at the forefront of the discipline</li> <li>2. Critical awareness of current problems, existing theories, developments and new insights in clearly defined areas and teaching contexts within dance education</li> <li>3. Comprehensive understanding of research techniques applicable to dance education research and advanced scholarship and an ability to apply them in practice</li> </ol>	Learning and Teaching strategies Acquisition of advanced levels of knowledge and understanding is achieved through guided reading and discussion forums, and individual tutoring by e-mail and telephone/Skype. Learning and teaching is resource-based with a high proportion of primary source materials and student generated research data. The research project module allows for student-led and tutor-guided application and extension of theoretical and research knowledge within the professional environment. Assessment Subject knowledge and understanding is assessed through written assignments and, in some instances, practical assignments ranging from essays to action plans and portfolios. Practical modes of assessment include the evaluation of practical teaching (as in MAE704 and MAE705) and conducting a focus group interview (MAE708).
Skills and other attributes - Intellectual / cognitive skills <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Conceptual understanding that enables critical evaluation of current research and advanced scholarship within defined areas and teaching contexts within dance education</li> <li>2. Advanced knowledge of learning and teaching and/or leadership through observation, reflection, analysis and evaluation</li> <li>3. Ability to relate examples of theoretical research to professional practice and draw on personal experience to extend ideas and debates on dance education</li> <li>4. Ability to generate innovative action-based research in dance education, learning and teaching, and/or leadership using established techniques of research and enquiry</li> </ol>	Learning and Teaching strategies Cognitive development is achieved through reflective practice, on-line peer group discussion and the individual tutoring system. Advanced level critical skills are embedded in the reading and tasks in each Module Study Guide. Cognitive development is also achieved through professional practice in the form of teaching and action-based research. Assessment All assessment modes provide opportunities for students to demonstrate high level thinking skills. The essay in module MAE701 engages students in critical evaluation of the relevance of selected research to their own professional practice. These critical skills are part of all other module options and are focussed and sharpened through the research process in the compulsory modules. The Research Proposal, submitted for approval in MAE711, is pivotal in demonstrating the level of critical engagement required of M Level study. The final Research Project and its potential dissemination provide an extended opportunity to fulfil the range of cognitive skills identified for the programme.
Skills and other attributes - Professional practical skills <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Advanced skills in teaching within specialist areas through application and critical reflection</li> </ol>	Learning and Teaching strategies Practical skills will be delivered as part of an Induction Seminar which introduces students to key issues in dance and dance education practice. MAE704: Inclusive Dance Practice and

<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>2. Flexibility, creativity and originality in the application of knowledge to practical teaching</li> <li>3. Ability to act autonomously in the planning and implementation of practical tasks at a professional level</li> <li>4. Ability to respond to the needs of learners and make sound judgements in complex and unpredictable situations</li> </ol>	MAE705: Somatic Approaches to Dance Education provide further opportunities to develop practical teaching skills in a specific area. MAE703: Leading Learning and MAE708: Assessment Issues in Dance Practice provide students with an opportunity to implement particular research methods in preparation for MAE711: Research Project. Practical skills will also be enhanced through independent learning within the workplace, guided by module tutors. Assessment Throughout the programme, students will engage in practical research both informally and formally. This engagement provides students with opportunities to utilise practical skills drawn from modules into their teaching and own research. Since all students are experienced dance teachers, some of whom have significant professional experience, the assessment of practical teaching is not a focus of the programme except where specialist skills are required (as in MAE704 and MAE705).
Skills and other attributes - Key / transferrable skills <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Analyse and critically evaluate complex concepts and ideas</li> <li>2. Analyse, organise and synthesise complex information and ideas</li> <li>3. Autonomously implement and evaluate improvements to performance drawing on best practice</li> <li>4. Construct informed, authoritative and lucid debate which engages with recent thinking</li> <li>5. Communicate ideas with coherence, clarity and impact to specialist and non-specialist audiences, using advanced verbal and non-verbal skills, including advanced ICT skills</li> <li>6. Respond to complex and unpredictable situations with high level decision making, independent thinking and problem solving skills</li> </ol>	Learning and Teaching strategies The essential reading materials and further reading in each Module Study Guide introduce complex concepts, theories and debates to challenge analytical, critical and evaluative skills. The nature of work-based and distance-learning study ensures that communication and problem solving skills are central. Student-led and tutor-guided modes of study encourage independent reflective practitioner/learners able to progress their own learning and communicate research findings with clarity. Assessment The range of written assignments allows students to demonstrate concise writing, detailed analysis, description and critical evaluation, and the presentation of statistics and data. The focus of the final research project should demonstrate an ability to engage with the highest levels of critical thinking in the subject and to generate original ideas and persuasive argument. The discipline of completing a comprehensive research proposal will demonstrate a wide range of transferable skills.

25. Quality management – indications of quality and the methods for evaluating and improving quality

Quality assurance (QA) processes are informed by and responsive to external governance as dictated by the QAA, OFSTED and the National College for Teaching and Leadership (NCTL).

Management of FoE QA process is governed internally by committee, and through various reporting lines to the validating university, which also reviews the quality of teaching; programme design and development, assessment, internal and external validation, student feedback; and student experience.

All staff engage in research and professional engagement to keep abreast of subject knowledge and pedagogy. All new staff receive comprehensive induction and are supported in their first year of appointment by more experienced tutors. All staff undergo regular peer review of their teaching and annual appraisal which includes review of research interests. In addition, regular INSET and FoE Planning Days provide opportunities for ensuring all staff are fully conversant with QA.

Programme design is maintained and developed by systematic review of module content and programme specifications against assessment and moderation, student performance, External Examiner reports, student and staff feedback on completion of each module and again at the end of the programme. Each programme undergoes an Annual Programme Review (APR) from which action points are drawn for implementation/review in the next academic year. APR reports are submitted to the FoE's Head of Quality Assurance who submits an over-arching annual report to the validating university.
